Responsibilities as a Senior Lecturer:

As a Senior Lecturer, my responsibilities include a broad range of academic and administrative duties. These include:

- Designing and developing course syllabi in alignment with academic standards and institutional goals.
- Preparing and delivering lectures across various levels of study.
- Administering mid-semester assessments to evaluate students' comprehension and progress.
- Setting, conducting, and grading end-of-semester examinations to assess academic performance.
- Participating in examination invigilation and ensuring the integrity of the assessment process.
- Processing and publishing examination results in a timely and accurate manner.
- Providing academic counselling and mentorship to students.
- Supervising undergraduate project work, as well as M.A. and MPhil theses.

In addition to teaching and supervision, I am actively engaged in research, the dissemination of scholarly findings, mentoring early-career academics, and contributing to community service initiatives as part of my professional commitment.

Teaching Assistantship Experience

Feb., 2007 - April, 2008

Faculty of Languages Education:
Department of Applied Linguistics

As part of the staff development programme of the Faculty of Languages Education, I was appointed as a Teaching Assistant in the Department of Applied Linguistics while pursuing my MPhil studies.

Under the mentorship of the late Professor J. N. Akpanglo-Nartey, my responsibilities included:

- Attending lectures alongside the professor to support instructional delivery.
- Organizing and facilitating tutorial sessions for undergraduate students in the following courses:
 - Introduction to Linguistics
 - Introduction to Phonetics
 - Introduction to Phonology
- Assisting in the preparation and grading of mid-semester and end-of-semester examinations.
- Supporting the processing and compilation of examination results for each academic semester.

This role provided me with valuable experience in academic instruction, student engagement, and assessment processes at the tertiary level.
